

SS16 NEWS - STELTON

NEWS FROM STELTON

January 2016

Drawing inspiration from Milan's catwalks the EM77 vacuum jug now comes in three new, trending colours. From pale lavender to deep burgundy and granite grey, the collection spans a broad colour spectrum. The To Go Click with the state-of-the-art smart click function is also launched in identical colours. Stelton's award-winning Emma tea and coffee range is expanded with several product news that will make a stylish addition to any table. One of the highlights is the beautiful electric kettle that is now available both in dark grey and light blue. The Emma collection also presents a beautiful minimalistic cake stand, made of glazed stoneware and is available in grey and blue. Furthermore, two new mugs, cups, cake plates, eggcups, salt and pepper shakers and bowls in two different sizes, are added to complete the modern tableware collection.

This Spring Stelton also presents the new bonbonniere – Peak. Designed by Mikaela Dörfel, Peak is elegantly made of steel with a brushed brass coating, which will adorn any living room table, bedside table or bookshelf. Its tight and consistent lines are broken by a spontaneous, playful crest on the lid of the bonbonniere. Peak is available in two sizes.

"Quality is the sum of timeless design and excellent material choice. You can feel the quality on your fingertips." Mikaela Dörfel.

About Stelton

Stelton is a Danish design company. Founded in 1958 Stelton has a long story of the Nordic design tradition. Innovation was the key from day one and the design house was first with cylindrical design produced in just one piece of steel. Many Stelton design objects have been awarded and quickly risen to an iconic status' world wide. Cylinda-Line by Arne Jacobsen and the iconic thermo jug by Erik Magnussen stand untouched by time. Just as popular today as when launched. For more visit www.stelton.com.