The re-birth of the French Tapestry Manufacture

This famous aubusson tapestry royal manufacture was founded in 1664 by Colbert. After more than five centuries of existence, this historical factory was included in UNESCO, the list of Intangible Cultural Heritage in 2009.

Heirs of a decorative workmanship which has adorned many castles and stately homes in France and abroad for sixteen centuries, Les Ateliers d'Aubusson are reinventing their historic trade. Talented designers are using contemporary as well as traditional designs to create the new, bold and modern collection presented in this catalogue.

Design and experimental innovation

Our collections are designed and crafted exclusively by Les Ateliers d'Aubusson, using innovative techniques which involve semi-mechanical processes and numerical technologies to create decorative and personalized objects of outstanding quality.

Only the finest quality wool and dyes are used to guarantee the vibrancy of colours that will remain unaltered throughout the years.

We are exploring new ways of incorporating other types of materials into their creations such as wood, leather or metal. Wool and cotton may also be combined with noble materials such as silk or gold thread or synthetic fibers giving scope for a multitude of creative possibilities...

Les Ateliers d'Aubusson use a combination of manual and numerical technology to create a multitude of unique and personalized objects based on paintings, sketches or photographs. A complete range of skills can be used to bring this age-old art to life in a whole range of new and innovative ways.

Highly skilled technicians now have the means to create made-to measure designs and meet the requirements of the most ambitious interior decorator or designer. We can cater for the requirements of all types of customers, both public and private and produce an infinite number of creations. The inherent qualities and texture of items made from tapestry fabric bring warmth and acoustic comfort to most interiors.
