ABOUT KIM

Kim got her competitive start in American Skeet at the age of 10. After winning the World Championship at age 13, she became captain of the All-American Team. This opened the door to the Olympic style of International Double Trap and International Skeet. She has captured 14 National Championship gold medals since making the National Team in 1995. Kim's career also includes 35 medals in international competitions including five Olympic medals. She is the first U.S. Olympian competing in an individual sport to win five medals in five consecutive Olympic Games. She was the 2015 Pan American Games Team USA flagbearer and would later go on to earn Pan Am gold.

Taking time off after her success in the 2004 Olympic Games, Rhode returned in 2006 with a new focus: the Women's Skeet event. Women's Double Trap was removed from the Olympic Games following the 2004 Games in Athens. Rhode successfully pocketed a silver medal at the 2008 Beijing Games in Women's Skeet. She is a member of the Safari Club International and an honorary lifetime member of the National Rifle Association. Kim keeps busy with training, public speaking, shooting demonstrations, skiing and hunting, and is an avid builder and restorer of antique and muscle cars. She also collects 1800's and 1900's first edition children's books, her favorite being The Wizard of Oz series. She gave birth to a son, Carter, on May 13, 2013.

2016 Olympic Recap -- When is bronze as good as gold? Look it up in the future and we're pretty sure you will be able to bookmark August 12, 2016. That's the date when 37-year-old Kim Rhode became the first Summer Olympian ever to win six medals in six straight Olympic Games. A historic moment for Rhode, and a historic moment for the Shooting Sports. Since winning Olympic gold as a 17-year-old in Atlanta, Rhode's journey now comes full circle having perhaps experienced the most trying four years of her Olympic pursuit. Pregnancy and childbirth created a whole host of health complications for Rhode. Looking at her son, Carter, in the stands on this day and seeing him waving down to mommy as she was about to step on the podium a record sixth-straight time, it was at that very moment that the pain of doing so vanished and that familiar feeling of accomplishment set in.

OLYMPIC ACCOLADES: Only American to have won six individual medals...Became just the third woman in Olympic history to win medals in six Olympic Games, joining Birgit Schmidt-Fischer (GER/Canoe) and Elisabeta Oleniuc-Lipa (ROM/Rowing). Rhode is now the first American to earn a medal on five different continents. A sixth consecutive medal ties her with luge great Armin Zöggeler of Italy for most consecutive individual Olympic medals by any Olympian.

We look forward to seeing you Thursday, January 24th 2019 at our SHOT Show TruckVault booth #12979 from 10:00 am to 11:30 pm.
